COURSE DESCRIPTION

University: Comenius University in Bratislava
Faculty:
Course ID: EBF/E-3-ET-038/15	Course title: Education Through the Word
Educational activities: Type of activities: lecture Number of hours: per week: 2 per level/semester: 28 Form of the course: on-site learning
Number of credits: 10
Recommended semester: 2., 4., 6.
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: assessment in the examination period – oral examination Regular attendance at lectures and oral examination in the examination period. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 0/100
Learning outcomes: The student who completed the course acquires professional knowledge on the level of international theological discussion on the selected topics of the subject. He/she will explore the power of God's Word in its worth through the hermeneutical instruments and possibilities of professional employment of the Word in the area of Catechetics and Homiletics. With respect to the topic of the Dissertation Thesis the PhD. candidate examines the professional context, which will be helpful in his/her Dissertation Thesis research. Based on the close study of primarily international scientific literature, which on the academic level exceeds the Master level of study, the graduate of the course "Education through the Word" acquires scientifically sound instruments for grasping the research task of his/her future Dissertation Thesis. God's Word as the fundamental instrument for internal growth of God's people and individuals in context of the Lutheran theology will become the graduate's instrument of research and eventual ministry on a higher professional level.
Class syllabus: 1. Selected chapters from the Biblical hermeneutics focusing on the task of the Dissertation Thesis 2. Selected chapters from the Religious Education focusing on the aims of the Dissertation Thesis 3. Selected chapters from the Catechetics in the current international debate 4. Selected chapters from the Didactics of the Religious Education 5. Selected Chapters from the Homiletics with respect to the emphasis of the Dissertation Thesis

Faculty:
Course ID: EBF/E-3-ET-031/15	Course title: Psychology and Philosophy of Religion
Educational activities: Type of activities: lecture Number of hours: per week: 2 per level/semester: 28 Form of the course: on-site learning
Number of credits: 10
Recommended semester: 1., 3., 5.
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: assessment in the examination period – oral examination Regular attendance at lectures and oral examination in the examination period. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 0/100
Learning outcomes: The aim of the subject is to expand knowledge of PhD. candidates of Evangelical-Lutheran Theology on the basic arguments (theistic and atheistic) from the field of Philosophy of Religion and their criticism on the one hand and to expand the knowledge of the history and the present state of multidisciplinary research in the Psychology of Religion on the other hand. After the completion of the course, the PhD. candidate acquires better methodological skills allowing him/her to participate on current debates in the area of philosophy and psychology of religion. He/she will expand his/her knowledge of the core topics of these debates and he/she will achieve better understanding of their broader philosophical and psychological background. In connection with the acquired methodological skills and conceptual knowledge he/she will be able to grasp and evaluate critically the particular lines of reasoning within the field of Philosophy and Psychology of Religion.
Class syllabus: With respect to content and topics in the field of Philosophy of Religion we will focus on the classical deductive and inductive arguments, concerning the a priori arguments of God's existence (ontological argument) and a posteriori arguments of God's existence (cosmological, teleological, moral and the argument of religious experience). The other topics of the subject Philosophy of Religion are: method, subject and content of the Philosophy of Religion; problem of evil; soul (mind) and body relation; religious language; religious diversity and interreligious dialogue; religion and political theory; concept of God (omnipotence, omniscience, power, eternity) and at last relationship of faith and science. Within Psychology of Religion we will focus on selected topics from the research of religion in the various psychological movements and on specific figures such as William James, Sigmund Freud, Carl Gustav Jung, Alfred Adler, Viktor Frankl, Eugen Drewermann, etc. Other possible topics include: religious mysticism, religion and health relationship, religion, ageing process and death, preconditions of healthy personality and spirituality, psychological aspects of pseudoreligious sects and cults; development of religious ideas in the child.
