| Learning outcomes:During lectures students will gain the basic knowledge about cultural development in central Europe during the Middle Ages. The course rests partially on the written and iconographical sources, but the main focus still lies on interpretation of archaeological finds - the material culture. The course widens the knowledge about the history of Central Europe also for students of other historical disciplines.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                           |

| Learning outcomes:At the course students will be acquainted with the selected aspects of the medieval life. They will get basic knowledge about the types of sources in archaeology as well as in other historical disciplines. The lectures will be focused on selected topics (see the class syllabus) and it will try to deepen the already gained background knowledge. Great attention will be paid on presentation of cultural development and its demonstration in the sphere of material culture.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                             |
