Learning outcomes: Students obtain basic knowledge and information about the phenomenon of everyday in visual arts, modern dance and theatre in 20th century. This subject is the first part of a series of lectures „Everyday in art I.-III“, that focus on intersections between art and everyday (e.g. the principle of random in art, Fluxus movement, conceptual art etc.). public art after 1945 on international and domestic level. The subject of everyday in art will be analyzed – the aim is to contextualize the development of this phenomenon in visual arts with other artistic genres and developments in dance and theatre. There is a school book, that the lecturer published to this subject (for more pls. see references below).
Class syllabus: The subject „Everyday in art I.“ aims to explore art history in the 19. and 20. century. The point of departure is the notion of ready-made by Marcel Duchamp, that was revolutionary and highly controversial. A part of the lectures is devoted to the context of the time of its emergence within art history, as this context is crucial for understanding its revolutionary and unconventional character. The other part of the lectures aims to investigate the influence of this notion, that we can trace out in visual arts, dance and theatre. An important aspect is the definition and theories around the notion of everyday. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Marcel Duchamp and the notion of ready-made;</li> <li>- Context of ready-made: before and after</li> <li>- Innovations and experimental projects in visual art in the first half of 20. century;</li> <li>- John Cage and aleatoric;</li> <li>- Nouveau réalisme;</li> <li>- Happening, performance and live-art;</li> <li>- Conceptual art;</li> </ul>
