Learning outcomes: Students obtain basic knowledge and information about the phenomenon of everyday in visual arts, modern dance and theatre in 20th century. This subject is the first part of a series of lecture „Everyday in art I.-III“, that focus on intersections between art and everyday (e.g. the principal of random in art, Fluxus movement, conceptual art etc.). public art after 1945 on international and domestic level. The subject of everyday in art will be analyzed – the aim is to contextualize the development of this phenomenon in visual arts with other artistic genres and developments in dance and theatre. There is a school book, that the lecturer published to this subject (for more pls. see references below).
Class syllabus: The subject „Everyday in art I.“ aims to explore art history in the 19. and 20. century. The point of departure is the notion of ready-made by Marcel Duchamp, that was revolutionary and highly controversial. A part of the lectures is devoted to the context of the time of its emergence within art history, as this context is crucial for understanding its revolutionary and unconventional character. The other part of the lectures aims to investigate the influence of this notion, that we can trace out in visual arts, dance and theatre. An important aspect is the definition and theories around the notion of everyday. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Marcel Duchamp and the notion of ready-made; - Context of ready-made: before and after - Innovations and experimental projects in visual art in the first half of 20. century; - John Cage and aleatoric; - Nouveau réalisme; - Happening, performance and live-art;

Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 0/100
Learning outcomes: The student will acquire knowledge for an overview of the development of modern architecture against the background of ideological-programmatic concepts of its creators. The aim of the course is to offer a deepening of knowledge on the issue of development trends in the architecture of the 19th and especially 20th centuries. It brings the key phenomena of architectural development closer to individual problem areas in the form of problem probes and case studies, but at the same time emphasizes the awareness of their continuity and complexity, the persistence or return of certain topics, issues and solutions.
Class syllabus: Due to the breadth and complexity of the issue, the course generally places more emphasis on the situation of architecture of the 20th century. It focuses primarily on the vicissitudes of the development of architecture in the 20th century. However, the course can also be considered as separate unit, connected by basic principles and method of interpretation and focused on the above mentioned time stages. The basic content aspect of the lecture series is the tensioned relationship of tradition and innovation in 19th and 20th century architecture; the forms, transformations and impulses that arose from it will be reflected in the context of a defined time frame: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - The city - scene of the modern world; - The power and role of the architect; - Architecture from the charity to welfare state; - Center and periphery of global architecture; - Monuments and ruins.

In terms of architectural materials, the lectures focus on important personalities and works shaping the development of modern architecture during the 20th century in Central Europe with overlaps into the wider European context: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - The development of building technologies as a factor in the development of the means of expression of modern architecture: the classical form as a purposeful and technical cultivation in the concepts of the first half of the 20th century architecture; the principle of cost-effectiveness, geometry and order; technological visions of architecture in the light of ideologies; - The ideological context of the symbolic language of modern architecture: a comprehensive and pluralistic response to the apparent simplicity and unity of modernism - CIAM, the international style, its global overlaps and the reformulations of brutalism; architecture in the service of ideology and power / politics; the pluralistic world of postmodernism - returns to history and meaning; dynamic space and architectural reflection of philosophical concepts - deconstructivism and trends of the end of the century.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2023/2024
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: FiF.KSD/A-buHI-007/15	Course title: Slovak History 1526-1780
Educational activities: Type of activities: lecture Number of hours: per week: 2 per level/semester: 28 Form of the course: on-site learning
Number of credits: 3
Recommended semester: 1., 3., 5.
Educational level: I.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: The students are assessed during the examination period in two phases as follows. The main part is the oral exam. Students can take it only after passing a short factual test consisting of 10 questions (at least 60% of the answers need to be correct, i.e. 6 correct answers out of 10). With these questions the teacher asks them to describe facts, without analyzing or generalizing them. The aim of the test is to make sure the students have the knowledge necessary to answer the questions in the oral exam, at which they will need to discuss interactively, dynamically and thoroughly with the examiner (the results of the test do not influence final grade). At the beginning of the exam, the students draw two random questions whose the exact wording is unknown to them in advance. From the first lesson, however, students will be given more extensive theses on the required (lectured and self-study) topics the questions will be based on. They have 10 minutes to prepare the answers to the questions and 20 minutes for answering. The students take the test and the oral exam on the same day and the final evaluation in the form of a test and an oral exam must be completed not only in regular date, but also in the retake dates. The exact regular and retake dates will be published in the AIS during the credit week. Grading scale: A = 100% – 92% B = 91% – 84% C = 83% – 76% D = 75% – 68% E = 67% – 60% Fx = 59% – 0% Violation of academic ethics will be punished, and the student will lose all the received points in the relevant assessment. Maximum number of unjustified absences: 2. Students with 3 and more absences will not be admitted to the exam. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 0/100
Learning outcomes:

Upon completing the cycle of lectures for the term and the topics for self-study, students are familiar with the basic political, economic, social and cultural history of the period. Furthermore, they understand the key development tendencies and historical concepts, the historical processes and aspects of the early modern period, as well as the basic questions modern Slovak historiography deals with. The students are familiar with the so-called great political history of the Kingdom of Hungary (of which the territory of today's Slovakia was an integral part in the 16th to 18th centuries) in the context of the development in Central Europe. At the same time they understand the facts and aspects of the time through the lens of the micro-history and regional history in relation to today's Slovakia).

Class syllabus:

1. Introduction to the subject: what should be understood by Slovak history in the early modern age, phases of the early modern age, Mohács as a milestone in the history of Slovakia, the Kingdom of Hungary and Central Europe.

The Habsburg monarchy in the geopolitics of Central Europe.

2. Basic historical sources and scholarly literature - historiography in the early modern age.

3. The population of the Kingdom of Hungary in the modern age - demographic development, social stratification and property differentiation in the estates of the Kingdom of Hungary with emphasis on the territory of today's Slovakia.

4. Economic conditions in the Kingdom of Hungary with emphasis on the economic potential of the territory of today's Slovakia (from agricultural production through mining to guilds and manufactories).

5. The Habsburgs as a (Central)European phenomenon, genealogy of the lineage, marriage policy.

6. The Ottomans in the Kingdom of Hungary, the existence of the Border between the Kingdom of Hungary Kingdom and the Ottoman empire in the 16th and 17th centuries.

7. The anti-Habsburg uprisings: the reality of the country in the 17th and early 18th century, the political, social and denominational context of these uprisings.

8. The Reformation, its social and institutional dimension in the 16th and 17th centuries.

9. The intellectual culture of humanism. Education. Book printing and literary production in vernacular languages.

10. Re-Catholicization and counter-reformation, the relationship between political and religious power in the 16th and 17th centuries. The culture of baroque catholicism.

11. Religious and cultural conditions in the 18th century. Inter-confessional relations at everyday and political levels. Between baroque and enlightenment.

12. Maria Theresa's rule and reforms.

Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: FiF.KDVU/A-boDU-033/00	Course title: Specialized Excursion 1
Educational activities: Type of activities: excursion Number of hours: per week: per level/semester: 10d Form of the course: on-site learning
Number of credits: 3
Recommended semester: 2.
Educational level: I.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: During the professional excursion, the student will present a paper on a pre-selected topic and take part in a discussion on the issue. Grading scale: 50-47: A, 46-43: B, 42-39: C, 38-35: D, 34-30: E, less than 30 FX The scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 100/0 The exact topic of the paper and the date of the presentation of the work will be announced min. one week before the excursion. Violation of academic ethics will be punished, and the student will lose all the received points in the relevant assessment. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 100/0
Learning outcomes: After completing the excursion, the student will have deeper skills in applying and linking the knowledge gained from individual courses. He gains new knowledge from the in-situ studies of monuments necessary for their proper evaluation and interpretation.
Class syllabus: The course represents active teaching in direct contact with monuments in the form of thematic alternating domestic and foreign excursions in the range of 10 days. The excursion program is primarily oriented for visits to museum and gallery collections, exploring architectural monuments in situ. It is designed to offer the widest possible range of stylistic transformations, and also types of artistic realizations. It consists of lectures by teachers and short student seminar papers that are a part of the developed professional discussion. The goal is the first more comprehensive practical application of knowledge acquired in previous courses, consolidation of the use of professional terminology, gaining new knowledge about the development of art and its local specifics through given artistic realizations.
Recommended literature:

According to the focus of a excursion. Information about the necessary literature will be provided to students in pre-excursion consultations. We also recommend students to draw literature from the Slovak National Gallery library.

Learning outcomes: After successfully completing the course, the student has the ability to independently analyze a visual art form, verbalize findings using adequate terminology, and interpret them in a broader art-historical context. The student has knowledge about the character and development of formal elements of works of art. The student is able to adequately apply the knowledge acquired in the other seminars, overview lectures on the development of individual style periods, as well as courses in iconography. At the same time, the course contains the practice of critical verification of resources, writing a scientific text (with the requirements similar to a bachelor's thesis), and its presentation in the form of a simulated scientific conference.
Class syllabus: 1. Principles and meaning of analysis of the form of works of art, contribution, and limits of stylistic-critical analysis of works; 2. Character and historical context of basic formal elements of works of art I - format, line and shape; 3. Character and historical context of basic formal elements of works of art II - color and its compositional, expressive and symbolic potential, light, brushwork;

4. Character and historical context of basic formal elements of works of art III – space constructions, proportions, movement;
5. Compositional principles of visual art and their historical changes;
6. Material arrangement and hierarchization of forms, the relationship between the whole and the details;
7. Harmony, gradation, and rhythm in a work of visual art;
8. Expression and atmosphere of a work of visual art;
9. Verbalization of what is seen in art-historical practice;
10. Formal analysis of works of art in practice - the basics of its oral and written presentation;
11. Links of form and content of the work, iconographic analysis, state of research, and own findings;
12. Presentations of seminar papers in the form of a simulated scientific conference with the necessary discussion.
