COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2024/2025
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: FiF/A-dVC-017/22	Course title: Active Participation in a Scientific Event Abroad (Published Abstract)
Educational activities: Type of activities: Number of hours: per week: per level/semester: Form of the course: on-site learning, distance learning
Number of credits: 15
Recommended semester:
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: The student prepares an abstract that is accepted by the organizers of the scientific event held abroad (conference, symposium, congress, etc.). The student participates in the scientific event, the costs associated with it being covered by grant funds—usually from the supervisor's project, or from a Comenius University grant for young researchers. At the scientific event, the student presents his/her paper, answers questions and participates in the discussion of other papers. On his/her return, he/she informs colleagues in the workplace about the results of the event and may publish a report on it. He/she will submit the abstract published during the event to the publication register. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 30/70 Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 30/70
Learning outcomes: The student demonstrates his/her ability to find a topic and to formulate an abstract attractive to the organizers of the scientific event and succeed with them in the competition. He/she will deepen his/her knowledge in the field and his/her scientific communication skills, and will strengthen and broaden his/her contacts in the professional community.
Class syllabus: The course does not constitute a standard unit of higher education. The student cooperates with and follows the recommendations of the supervisor regarding the preparation of the abstract, the paper, and its presentation. The procedure and timing are determined by the student himself/herself, taking into account the deadlines set by the organisers of the event.
Recommended literature: The literature needed for the output will be determined in collaboration with the supervisor, taking into account the subject area and current state of research. Literature that is not available in the Academic Library or available through external information sources will be provided by purchasing at the initiative of the student or by using the interlibrary loan service.
Languages necessary to complete the course: Slovak, English, other if necessary (conference languages)

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2024/2025
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: FiF/A-dDA-007/22	Course title: Bachelor's Final Thesis Assessment Authorship
Educational activities: Type of activities: Number of hours: per week: per level/semester: Form of the course: on-site learning, distance learning
Number of credits: 3
Recommended semester:
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: The student, in agreement with the head of the department and the supervisor, will write an assessment of a final bachelor thesis, the topic of which is related to the topic of his/her dissertation project. He/she will prepare the assessment responsibly, express and support the evaluation of the thesis as a whole and its individual parts, name the strengths and weaknesses and add recommendations for the author's further work on the final bachelor's thesis. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 0/100
Learning outcomes: By writing an assessment for the final bachelor thesis, the student deepens his/her ability to make critical evaluative judgements and his/her argumentative competence. The work on the thesis report also contributes to the success of his/her dissertation project.
Class syllabus: The course does not constitute a standard unit of higher education. The student shall immediately and in detail familiarize himself/herself with the thesis under review and shall send the review to the author of the thesis and to the thesis defense administrator (academic advisor) no later than five days prior to the defense.
Recommended literature: The literature required for the assessment of the thesis is chosen by the student. When obtaining it, the student uses the funds of the Academic Library of Comenius University and external information sources.

Academic year: 2024/2025
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: FiF.Dek/A-dSZ-099/22	Course title: Dissertation Thesis Defence
Number of credits: 30
Educational level: III.
Course requirements: A doctoral student may apply for permission to defend his/her dissertation if <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a) he/she has obtained at least 150 credits (in a study programme for the proper completion of which the achievement of 180 credits is a prerequisite) or at least 210 credits (in a study programme for the proper completion of which the achievement of 240 credits is a prerequisite), (b) fulfils the conditions laid down in the individual study plan; and (c) has authored at least three scientific papers related to the topic of the doctoral thesis, two of which must be published and the third either published or accepted for publication. A request for permission to defend the dissertation is submitted in writing to the Dean through the Doctoral Studies Office. The application shall be submitted at the latest five months before the end of the standard length of studies; if the doctoral student's studies exceed the standard length of studies, the application shall be submitted at the latest five months before the end of the academic year in which the defence is to take place. The application shall be accompanied by <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a) the dissertation, (b) a summary of the main results of the dissertation, normally of two standard pages, c) copies of all publications and other elaborations, if they are not part of the dissertation; if the doctoral candidate attaches the output from the CU publication database, he/she does not need to submit copies of publications, d) a list of published works with full bibliographical data and unpublished scientific works and performances of the PhD student, as well as reviews of them and, where appropriate, testimonials about them, (e) a justification of the differences between the original dissertation and the submitted dissertation, if the doctoral candidate submits a new dissertation in the same field of doctoral study after an unsuccessful defence, f) confirmation from the editorial board of the acceptance of the scientific thesis for publication, if it is a scientific thesis accepted for publication. The dissertation shall be assessed by three/three referees. At the end of the written assessment, the referee(s) shall comment on whether he/she recommends the thesis for defence and shall propose a pass or fail classification. The successful defence of the dissertation is the end of the doctoral studies. The defence of the dissertation is evaluated by the classification grade pass or fail. The overall result of the duly completed doctoral studies shall be graded as pass. If the doctoral candidate has been assessed with a failing grade at the dissertation defence, he/she shall be entitled to one revision period. A failing grade at the remedial term of the dissertation defence is a reason for exclusion from the studies. The dissertation defence and the announcement of its results are public. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 0/100

Learning outcomes:

The defence of the dissertation demonstrates the student's ability to think critically and to gather and evaluate information, as well as his/her readiness for independent scientific and creative activity in the field of research or development.

Class syllabus:

The dissertation defence takes place in the form of a scientific debate between the doctoral student, the dissertation opponents, the members of the examination committee and other participants about the knowledge gained and the contribution of the dissertation.

The procedure for the defence of the dissertation:

1. the chairperson of the examination committee will present the doctoral student's curriculum vitae, announce the essential information from the supervisor's report, an overview of the doctoral student's scientific works and their responses,
2. the doctoral candidate shall briefly state the essential content of his/her dissertation, its conception, results and contribution,
3. the opponents will present the essential content of their opinions,
4. the doctoral candidate gives his/her opinion on the evaluations, in particular comments on all suggestions and comments and answers questions,
5. the chairperson of the examination committee opens a discussion in which all participants in the defence may take part; the discussion verifies the correctness, validity, scientific originality and relevance of the knowledge contained in the thesis,
6. the doctoral candidate answers all questions during the discussion and takes a position on all suggestions and comments made by the participants of the dissertation defence,
7. the examination committee decides on the result of the defence in a closed session in the presence of the dissertation opponents and the supervisor,
8. the announcement of the result of the dissertation examination is made in the presence of the student(s) and is public.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2024/2025
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: FiF/A-dVC-013/22	Course title: Expert Article in a Non-Indexed Journal / Expert Chapter or Article (less than 36 000 signs)
Educational activities: Type of activities: Number of hours: per week: per level/semester: Form of the course: on-site learning, distance learning
Number of credits: 10
Recommended semester:
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: The student will write an expert paper published or accepted for publication in a non-indexed journal or an expert monograph or a chapter/paper of less than 36 000 signs. In the case of a monograph or chapter/paper, the output must be published or accepted for publication in a reputable foreign or national journal or publishing house. The student will produce the output under the methodological guidance of the supervisor. The student shall have a clear and demonstrable authorial contribution to the output, the extent of which is expressed as a percentage. This percentage also becomes part of the record in the publication register. The number of credits shall be determined as the product of $35 \times N$, where N is a number less than or equal to 1 that expresses the doctoral student's share of authorship; if $35 \times N$ is a decimal number, it shall be mathematically rounded to the nearest whole number. The definition of the scientific output of the publication activity is regulated by the Decree of the Ministry of Education, Science, Research and Sport of the Slovak Republic No. 397/2020, § 1, point 5. Violation of academic ethics results in the annulment of the credit evaluation. Completion of the course is without grade. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 0/100
Learning outcomes: The student will demonstrate a comprehensive knowledge of the relevant field of research by writing the expert output. The outcome is a test of the student's ability to write a relevant text that raises clearly defined questions and issues. In the case of an output that is the work of several co-authors, the student will also deepen his/her ability to collaborate and coordinate the research activities.
Class syllabus: The course does not constitute a standard unit of higher education. The student cooperates with and follows the recommendations of the supervisor and, where appropriate, the editor of the output with regard to the focus, structure and method of preparation of the output. The process and timetable of the work is determined by the student, subject to the approval of the supervisor.

Recommended literature:

The literature needed for the output will be determined in collaboration with the supervisor, taking into account the subject area and current state of research. Literature that is not available in the Academic Library or available through external information sources will be provided by purchasing at the initiative of the student or by using the interlibrary loan service.

The student shall have a clear and demonstrable authorial contribution to the output, the extent of which is expressed as a percentage. This percentage also becomes part of the record in the publication register. The number of credits shall be determined as the product of $35 \times N$, where N is a number less than or equal to 1 that expresses the doctoral student's share of authorship; if $35 \times N$ is a decimal number, it shall be mathematically rounded to the nearest whole number. The definition of the scientific output of the publication activity is regulated by the Decree of the Ministry of Education, Science, Research and Sport of the Slovak Republic No. 397/2020, § 1, point 5. Violation of academic ethics results in the annulment of the credit evaluation. Completion of the course is without grade. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 0/100
Learning outcomes: The student will demonstrate a comprehensive knowledge of the relevant field of research by writing the expert output. The outcome is a test of the student's ability to write a relevant text that raises clearly defined questions and issues. In the case of an output that is the work of several co-authors, the student will also deepen his/her ability to collaborate and coordinate the research activities.
Class syllabus: The course does not constitute a standard unit of higher education. The student cooperates with and follows the recommendations of the supervisor and, where appropriate, the editor of the output with regard to the focus, structure and method of preparation of the output. The process and timetable of the work is determined by the student, subject to the approval of the supervisor.

Recommended literature: The literature needed for the output will be determined in collaboration with the supervisor, taking into account the subject area and current state of research. Literature that is not available in the Academic Library or available through external information sources will be provided by purchasing at the initiative of the student or by using the interlibrary loan service.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2024/2025
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: FiF.KAA/A-dLV-031/21	Course title: Reception of Anglophone Literature in Slovakia
Educational activities: Type of activities: seminar Number of hours: per week: 2 per level/semester: 28 Form of the course: on-site learning
Number of credits: 6
Recommended semester: 2., 4.
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: Students continuously have consultations with the instructor, at least three times a semester. The prerequisite for the final evaluation is the preparation of a project in a written form on a topic discussed with students during consultations and it is derived from the general topic of students' doctoral thesis. (Students create a thesis, research question, the secondary literature list, and so on). Students submit final written project for final evaluation. 30 % active participation in consultations 20 % submission of the project proposal 50 % submission of the final project A: 100% - 93% B: 92% - 85% C: 84% - 77% D: 76% - 69% E: 68% - 60% FX: 59% - 0% Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): continuous/ final evaluation: 50/ 50
Learning outcomes: Students understand the area of expertise focused on the reception of a literary work in the context of anglophone literatures. Students can evaluate the relationship between culture, translation, and a literary work/ literary history. They are able critically evaluate questions of interliterary communication, literary comparative studies, cultural, political, and historical links among individual examined cultures, on possibilities of their mutual influence. Students can use the methods of scholarly research: based on the secondary texts and their own research they are able to identify 'research gap', can formulate a sensible thesis, and can put together in writing a text that is the result of their research.
Class syllabus: 1. Forms of interliterary reception. 2. Traditional forms. 2.1. Translation process as a form of literary work reception.

- 2.2 Aesthetic experience as a result of interliterary communication.
- 2.3. The emergence of reception tradition from the perspective of literary comparative studies.
- 2.4. Interliterary quality as a natural movement of values. Between “my” and “other”.
3. Interdisciplinary understanding of reception.
- 3.1. Reception from the phenomenology point of view.
- 3.2. Reception from the hermeneutics point of view.
- 3.3. Reception as a sociological problem.
- 3.4. Reception as a problem of intercultural communication.
4. Political and cultural context in anglophone countries and (Czecho)slovak cultural and political situation.
5. Translation and reception of anglophone literature in years 1945 - 1948.
6. Translation and reception of anglophone literature in years 1948 - 1968.
7. Translation and reception of anglophone literature in years 1968 - 1989.
8. Anglophone literature in Slovak translation at present.
9. Important Slovak translators of anglophone literature.
10. Author preferred at certain historical times and situation of cultural values.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2024/2025
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: FiF.KGNS/A-dLV-004/14	Course title: Reception of Germanic Literatures in Slovakia
Educational activities: Type of activities: seminar Number of hours: per week: 2 per level/semester: 28 Form of the course: on-site learning
Number of credits: 6
Recommended semester: 1.
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: The student takes an active part in the class, studies the prescribed literature and prepares the assigned presentations. The preparation of a scientific or professional article, based on a reflection on the topics of this seminar, linked to the topic of the student's doctoral thesis, is a condition for obtaining an evaluation. 40 % active participation in seminars 60 % submission of a scientific or professional article A: 100% - 93% B: 92% - 85% C: 84% - 77% D: 76% - 69% E: 68% - 60% FX: 59% - 0% Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): interim/final evaluation: 40/60
Learning outcomes: As a result of the educational process, students are oriented to the reception of German-language literature in Slovakia, both in the domestic German-language media (until 1945), in translated works and in the literary-historical reflection of Slovak literary historians and historians. Students are able to analyze the relationship between culture, translation and literary work/literary history. They are able to critically evaluate issues of historical reception in the theoretical context of literary sociology and transcultural literary history as well as reflect on the cultural, political and historical connections between the production of individual literary works and their translations. Students are able to situate the topics of their dissertations in the context of Slovak Germanic literary studies and literary reception and to propose various possibilities for their research.
Class syllabus: The course will take the form of discussions of selected texts on the reception of German-language literature and culture in Slovakia. These texts will always be selected according to the current dissertation topics of the PhD students. They will mainly deal with the interrelations between literature and culture in the 19th to 21st centuries in the context of historical reception and literary sociology. The students will also gain an overview of German studies research on Slovak-German literary and cultural figures, using the example of the scientific research of important representatives of Slovak German studies of different generations, such as Ervín Lazar, Elemír Terray, Ladislav Šimon or Dagmar Košťálová. Taking into account the current themes of dissertations, students will become familiar with Slovak translations of selected German authors.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2024/2025
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: FiF/A-dVC-039/22	Course title: Research stay abroad
Educational activities: Type of activities: Number of hours: per week: per level/semester: Form of the course: on-site learning, distance learning
Number of credits: 10
Recommended semester:
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: Implementation of research stay abroad for at least 2 weeks in accordance with the research stay plan approved by the supervisor, report from the research stay, confirmation from the host foreign institution on the completed mobility, and presentation of the course and results of the foreign research stay at the supervising department.
Learning outcomes: The student has improved in planning, organization, and implementation of research, as well as in formulating its sub-objectives. He/she is better oriented in institutions whose professional activities are related to the subject of his/her research within the framework of doctoral studies, and is building a network of contacts in the corresponding field of research.
Class syllabus: The subject is an individual stay at a foreign institution focused on solving a specific and well-defined research task. Before starting the mobility, the student will draw up a research stay plan, which generally includes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the state of research to date within the framework of her/his doctoral research; • a definition of the research task and the aim of the stay in relation to doctoral research; • the rationale for choosing the foreign institution; • specific activities planned to achieve the aim of the stay; • timetable for the stay; • a description of any planned consultations; • expected outcomes of the research stay. The student's research stay plan shall be approved by the supervisor. Upon return from mobility, the student shall provide certificate from the host foreign institution. Depending on the predefined requirements she/he shall also provide confirmation from consultants. The student shall then draw up a mobility report and make a presentation at the supervising department on the course and results of the stay. The report and the presentation also serve as a basis for evaluating the course.
Recommended literature: Individually, following the instructions of the thesis supervisor and focus of the dissertation topic.

Languages necessary to complete the course: Slovak; another language depending on the country where the foreign research stay is carried out and the requirements of the host institution.

Course ID: FiF/A-dVC-005/22	Course title: Scientific Paper in a Non-Indexed Journal / Chapter or Article (less than 36 000 signs)
Educational activities: Type of activities: Number of hours: per week: per level/semester: Form of the course: on-site learning, distance learning
Number of credits: 20
Recommended semester:
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: The student will write a scientific paper published or accepted for publication in a non-indexed journal or a monograph or a chapter/paper of less than 36 000 signs. In the case of a monograph or chapter/paper, the output must be published or accepted for publication in a reputable foreign or national journal or publishing house. The student will produce the output under the methodological guidance of the supervisor. The student shall have a clear and demonstrable authorial contribution to the output, the extent of which is expressed as a percentage. This percentage also becomes part of the record in the publication register. The number of credits shall be determined as the product of $35 \times N$, where N is a number less than or equal to 1 that expresses the doctoral student's share of authorship; if $35 \times N$ is a decimal number, it shall be mathematically rounded to the nearest whole number. The definition of the scientific output of the publication activity is regulated by the Decree of the Ministry of Education, Science, Research and Sport of the Slovak Republic No. 397/2020, § 1, point 5. Violation of academic ethics results in the annulment of the credit evaluation. Completion of the course is without grade. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 0/100
Learning outcomes: The student will demonstrate a comprehensive knowledge of the relevant field of research by writing the scientific output. The outcome is a test of the student's ability to write a relevant scientific text that raises clearly defined questions and issues and brings new knowledge. In the case of an output that is the work of several co-authors, the student will also deepen his/her ability to collaborate and coordinate the research activities.
Class syllabus: The course does not constitute a standard unit of higher education. The student cooperates with and follows the recommendations of the supervisor and, where appropriate, the editor of the output with regard to the focus, structure and method of preparation of the output. The process and timetable of the work is determined by the student, subject to the approval of the supervisor.

Recommended literature: The literature needed for the output will be determined in collaboration with the supervisor, taking into account the subject area and current state of research. Literature that is not available in the Academic Library or available through external information sources will be provided by purchasing at the initiative of the student or by using the interlibrary loan service.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2024/2025
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: FiF.KRom/A-dLV-003/22	Course title: Seminar for Post-graduate Students 2
Educational activities: Type of activities: seminar Number of hours: per week: 2 per level/semester: 28 Form of the course: on-site learning
Number of credits: 8
Recommended semester: 2., 4.
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Antirequisites: FiF.KSLLV/A-dSL-013/19 or FiF.Dek/A-dLV-002/14
Course requirements: Active participation in seminars (two absences are allowed), presentation of own creative output of partial research and study related to the dissertation topic. In all parts of the evaluation, the doctoral student must achieve a minimum of 60 percent success rate. Grading scale: A: 100% - 93% B: 92% - 85% C: 84% - 77% D: 76% - 69% E: 68% - 60% FX: 59% - 0% Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 100/0
Learning outcomes: Upon completion of the course, the doctoral student will acquire theoretical and methodological approaches in the field of literary theory, literary history and their literary-critical analyses through a scientific discussion. The student will be able to apply, analyse, and evaluate the acquired information in his/her own research work. The student will master the rules of discussion and acquire the professional and communication skills to present his/her own output independently to a professional community, ranging from active listening, to formulating arguments factually, precisely and concisely, to communicating them persuasively to others, all the way to managing objections.
Class syllabus: The seminar will take the form of moderated discussions aimed at developing conceptual thinking, creativity, and argumentation and presentation skills. The material base for the interactive exercises will be both selected literary methodological texts forming the basis for the conception of their own work, and the students' own scholarly outputs. The seminar will draw on the subject Literary Science -- the student will apply the knowledge acquired here in the development of the conceptual and methodological framework of his/her research project. The recommended readings will direct the student to key methodological and theoretical concepts and, consequently, to texts in literary studies.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2024/2025
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: FiF.KSLLV/A-dSL-007/22	Course title: Seminar in Poetology and Text Analysis
Educational activities: Type of activities: seminar Number of hours: per week: 2 per level/semester: 28 Form of the course: on-site learning
Number of credits: 6
Recommended semester: 2., 4.
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: Active participation in seminars in the form of discussion presentations (maximum one absence is accepted), presentation of selected issues at the seminar, presentation of own text in the field of literary text interpretation (deadlines for presentation / submission of required outputs will be announced at the beginning of the semester). In all parts of the evaluation, the student must achieve at least 60 percent success. Classification scale: A: 100% - 93% B: 92% - 85% C: 84% - 77% D: 76% - 69% E: 68% - 60% FX: 59% - 0% Violation of academic ethics results in the cancellation of earned points in the relevant item. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 100/0
Learning outcomes: After completing the course, the doctoral student will strengthen the competence to interpret literary texts with regard to their literary-historical, poetological and genre context, using previous knowledge of key literary theories and methodologies of the 20th and 21st centuries. Will be able to apply, analyze and evaluate the information in their own research work. They will expand their knowledge of critical thinking, learn the rules of discussion and acquire professional and communication skills for independent presentation of their own outputs in front of the professional community.
Class syllabus: The seminar in the form of moderated discussions is focused on the development of critical thinking, creativity and argumentation and presentation skills. The material basis for interactive exercises will be selected conceptual literary methodological studies, as well as the own professional outputs of doctoral students focused on the interpretation of a specific literary text with regard to the focus of the dissertation. Individual seminars will focus on: a) interpretation of a literary text using and linking knowledge from literary theory, methodology and literary history and poetics; b) acquaintance with interpretive approaches and strategies in world and Slovak literary science; c) interpretation of a specific literary text with regard to the focus of the doctoral student's dissertation.

Educational activities: Type of activities: seminar Number of hours: per week: 2 per level/semester: 28 Form of the course: on-site learning
Number of credits: 6
Recommended semester: 2., 4.
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: The student actively participates in seminars, studies the secondary literature and prepares presentations – 40%. The condition for obtaining the evaluation is writing a research paper, based on the reflection of the topics of this seminar, linked to the topic of the student's doctoral thesis – 60%. Grading scale: A: 100% - 93% B: 92% - 85% C: 84% - 77% D: 76% - 69% E: 68% - 60% FX: 59% - 0% Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 40%/60%
Learning outcomes: The result of the educational process is the orientation of students in the reception of ancient Greek and / or Roman literature in Slovakia, in translation and in the literary-historical reflection of Slovak literary historians. Students are able to analyze the relationship between culture, translation and literary work / literary history. They are able to critically evaluate the issues of interliterary communication, the issues of relations between the individual cultures studied and the issue of their mutual influence. Students are able to introduce the topics of their dissertations into the context of Slovak literary science and literary reception and suggest the possibilities of their research. Based on the studied primary and secondary literature and their own research, they are able to identify a gap in scientific knowledge and know how to work out a text that is the result of their research.
Class syllabus: The course takes the form of discussions on selected texts from the reception of ancient Greek and Roman literature and culture in Slovakia. These texts will be modified according to the current dissertation topics of doctoral students within the broader areas: 1. Theoretical introduction to the reception of ancient Greek and Roman literature in Slovakia (Grusková). 2. Selected partial problems of the reception of ancient Greek literature (Grusková - Machajdíkóvá) 3. Selected partial problems of the reception of ancient Roman literature - humanism (Lábaj) 4. Selected partial problems of the reception of ancient Roman literature in Slovak literature in the Baroque, Enlightenment and Classicism period (Eliášová Buzássyová) 5. Selected partial problems of the reception of ancient Roman literature in modern Slovak literature (Andoková - Eliášová Buzássyová). 6. Final colloquium.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2024/2025
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: FiF/A-dDA-008/22	Course title: Supervision of a Paper Presented at the Students' Research Conference
Educational activities: Type of activities: Number of hours: per week: per level/semester: Form of the course: on-site learning, distance learning
Number of credits: 5
Recommended semester:
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: The PhD student, in agreement with his/her supervisor, conducts a thesis of the student of I., or (in justified cases) II. degree, which is subsequently presented at a student scientific conference. The thesis may be produced within the framework of a course that the PhD student is leading or has led. The PhD student guides the student methodologically, helping him/her to conceptualise and design the research and commenting on the textual form. He/she participates in the preparation of the presentation and the method of the thesis defense. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 50/50
Learning outcomes: By conducting a thesis presented at a student scientific conference, the PhD student deepens his/her ability of conceptual scientific work and develops his/her pedagogical competences.
Class syllabus: The course does not constitute a standard unit of higher education. Conducting student work requires ongoing activity, meetings and consultations, as well as continuous reading and commenting on the emerging text, so that the author's energy and time are spent efficiently and the workload is appropriately spread over time.
Recommended literature: The literature required for the thesis is selected by the PhD student in cooperation with the author of the thesis, taking into account the topic, the thematic area and the current research in it. In the process of its acquisition, the funds of the Academic Library of Comenius University and external information sources are used.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2024/2025
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: FiF/A-dDA-006/22	Course title: Teaching Activities - Course Assistance
Educational activities: Type of activities: other Number of hours: per week: 2 per level/semester: 28 Form of the course: on-site learning, distance learning
Number of credits: 5
Recommended semester:
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: The student cooperates in the administration of the course for Level I students or (in justified cases) Level II students. The focus of the course is directly related to the topic of his/her dissertation project. It may be a course that is not designated as a profile course in the programme of study; if it is a profile course, the student may only conduct the practicum. He/she participates in the preparation of the teaching in cooperation with the supervisor, and the supervisor is responsible for ensuring that his/her contribution to the conduct of the course is of an appropriate professional and didactic standard, as well as for the objectivity of the evaluation. The quality of the doctoral student's teaching is periodically assessed in a student survey and by the doctoral committee of the doctoral programme. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 50/50
Learning outcomes: The student will deepen his/her knowledge and insight in the given field of research by pedagogical activity - cooperation in the course management. He/she will apply his/her experience from his/her own studies and develop his/her didactic skills. Teaching activity in an area directly related to the topic of his/her dissertation project serves as a space for hypothesis testing and deeper reflection on individual aspects of the topic, thus contributing to the successful course of the dissertation project.
Class syllabus: The course does not constitute a standard unit of higher education. The student cooperates with and follows the recommendations of the supervisor regarding the focus, structure and didactic aspect of the teaching activity. That part of the course outline and syllabus which is developed by the student is subject to the approval of his/her supervisor.

Educational activities: Type of activities: other Number of hours: per week: 2 per level/semester: 28 Form of the course: on-site learning, distance learning
Number of credits: 7
Recommended semester:
Educational level: III.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: The student independently conducts the course for students of level I or (in justified cases) level II. The focus of the course is directly related to the topic of his/her dissertation project. It can only be a course that is not designated as a profile course in the given study programme. The PhD student may also write a new elective course with the consent of the supervisor and the programme board. The preparation of the course is carried out in cooperation with the supervisor, and the supervisor is responsible for ensuring that the course is conducted at an appropriate professional and didactic level, as well as for the objectivity of the evaluation. The quality of the doctoral student's teaching is periodically assessed in a student survey and by the doctoral committee of the doctoral programme. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 50/50
Learning outcomes: The student will deepen his/her knowledge and insight in the given field of research by independent pedagogical activity - course management. He/she will apply his/her experience from his/her own studies and develop his/her didactic skills. Pedagogical activity in the field directly related to the topic of his/her dissertation project serves as a space for hypothesis testing and deeper thinking about individual aspects of the topic, thus contributing to the successful course of the dissertation project.
Class syllabus: The course does not constitute a standard unit of higher education. The student cooperates with and follows the recommendations of the supervisor regarding the focus, structure and didactic aspect of the teaching activity. The course syllabus and course outlines are prepared by the student and approved in advance by the supervisor.
Recommended literature: The literature required for the teaching activity will be determined in collaboration between the student and the supervisor, taking into account the subject area, current research in it, as well as the course syllabus and syllabus. Literature that is not available in the Academic Library or available through external information sources will be provided in advance by purchasing the publication at the initiative of the student or by using the interlibrary loan service.
