COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2025/2026
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Law
Course ID: PraF.KOP/mPRV17-905/25	Course title: Applied civil law
Educational activities: Type of activities: seminar Number of hours: per week: 3 per level/semester: 39 Form of the course: on-site learning
Number of credits: 5
Recommended semester: 2.
Educational level: II.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: Ongoing assessment 100% Ongoing assessment (written papers and active participation in seminars): 60% - preparation of a final written submission or case study: 40% Classification scale: A/1 = 91 – 100%; B/1.5 = 81-90%; C/2 = 73-80%; D/2.5 = 66-72%; E/3 = 60–65%; FX = 0-59% During the examination, the student can use all available sources of legal information, especially uncommented legal regulations, commentaries, jurisprudence, legal literature and legal information systems.
Learning outcomes: Knowledge: Students will acquire a deep interdisciplinary overview that connects civil law with other areas of the legal system (e.g., constitutional, administrative, commercial, and international law), taking into account the influence of European and international law in solving practical problems in civil law. Skills: The interdisciplinary nature of the course, i.e., the combination of substantive and procedural law, is also reflected in the student's ability to comprehensively solve practical cases, draft legal submissions, and argue legal cases after completing the course, thereby fulfilling the course's objective of preparing students for the requirements of professional practice. Students will therefore address standard issues in an above-standard manner, requiring them to work with all sources of legal information when solving practical assignments. Students are able to independently analyze complex legal situations and develop qualified proposals for their resolution, effectively applying legislation, case law, and legal doctrine. They are able to combine substantive and procedural aspects in a specific case (e.g., contractual relationships and their judicial enforcement), propose practical solutions that also take into account the strategy of conducting a dispute or alternative solutions. They are skilled at communicating with clients and other participants in legal relationships or civil proceedings, understand their needs, and are able to draft the necessary documents, lawsuits, proposals, contracts, legal analyses, and opinions in a form that is understandable to the lay public. They are able to make qualified decisions even with incomplete or conflicting information, with an emphasis on ethical and social responsibility. They know how to argue legally and in terms of values, taking into account the broader implications of legal solutions. Responsibility and independence: Students are able to competently apply the relevant legal norms of civil law, case law, and legal doctrine in interdisciplinary contexts to complex and complicated case studies. They are prepared to immediately produce high-quality legal outputs in the public administration, judiciary, and private sectors related to the provision of legal services, with an emphasis on precision, practicality, and social responsibility. They are able to critically reflect on ethical dilemmas that arise, for example, in conflicts of interest, confidentiality protection, representation of vulnerable clients, or balancing the legal and moral aspects of a case. They are able to justify their decisions credibly and convincingly, with an emphasis on legal correctness and humanity.

Teaching that also takes into account the requirements of practical application in the areas of the judiciary, public prosecution, and legal professions, which are supervised by the Ministry of Justice of the Slovak Republic.

Class syllabus:

When solving practical tasks, submissions, and analyses, the course will focus mainly on:

1. General part of the Civil Code (legal acts and their validity) I
2. General part of the Civil Code (legal acts and their validity) II

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2025/2026
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Law
Course ID: PraF.KTPKK/mPRV17-915/25	Course title: Applied criminal law, financial law and economic law
Educational activities: Type of activities: seminar Number of hours: per week: 3 per level/semester: 39 Form of the course: on-site learning
Number of credits: 5
Recommended semester: 4.
Educational level: II.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: Interim evaluation - 100% of the total evaluation - consists of e.g. seminar activities, case studies, legal analyses as assigned by the lecturers. In the examination, the student may use all available sources of legal information, in particular uncommented legislation, commentaries, case law, legal literature and legal information systems. Grading scale: A/1 = 91-100%; B/1.5 = 81-90%; C/2 = 73-80%; D/2.5 = 66-72%; E: 60-65%, Fx: 0-59%. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 100/0
Learning outcomes: A) Knowledge: After completing the course, students will have interdisciplinary knowledge and a comprehensive view of selected topics from the perspective of criminal law, financial law, and economic law, while taking economic aspects into account. Students will be able to identify and utilize synergies between different areas of law in order to find optimal solutions. B) Skills: Students are able to comprehensively solve practical cases with interdisciplinary overlap (using interdisciplinary connections and linking all sources of legal information) and have specialized skills for independent and qualified resolution of legal problems. They are able to draft legal submissions and argue legally, thereby fulfilling the objective of the course, which is to prepare students for the requirements of practical application. C) Responsibility and independence: Students are qualified to independently draft high-quality and comprehensive legal outputs and submissions in the areas of public administration, justice, or the private sector, all while critically evaluating the relevance of legal and non-legal information. They are able to independently resolve legal issues and propose optimal procedures and solutions. Teaching that also takes into account the requirements of practical application in the areas of the judiciary, public prosecution, and legal professions, which are supervised by the Ministry of Justice of the Slovak Republic.
Class syllabus: In dealing with practical assignments, submissions and analyses, the course will focus mainly on the following topics, which will be examined mainly from a criminal law perspective, while taking into account aspects of financial law, economic law and economics:

- Misuse of tax law norms,
- violations in the financial market sector: banks, insurance companies, securities dealers, etc,
- unlawful activities in the field of monetary law, foreign exchange law, customs law,
- financial control,
- bankruptcy or imminent bankruptcy of an entrepreneur, a company in crisis, bankruptcy, insolvency proceedings and related machinations,
- abuse of market position - competition, unfair competition,
- violation of legislation on public procurement, public auction,
- unauthorised trade business.

Course ID: PraF.UEP/mPRV17-1230/25	Course title: Disaster Risk Management in EU Law
Educational activities: Type of activities: lecture / seminar Number of hours: per week: per level/semester: 5s / 26s Form of the course: on-site learning
Number of credits: 2
Recommended semester: 1., 3.
Educational level: II.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: Continuous assessment: activity / assignment presentation 40%, case study solution 60%. Grading scale: A/1 = 91–100%; B/1.5 = 81–90%; C/2 = 73–80%; D/2.5 = 66–72%; E/3 = 60–65%; FX = 0–59%. The course is taught and examined using selected unannotated legal provisions. Weight of continuous / final assessment: 100/0. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 100/0
Learning outcomes: Over the past two years, the world has witnessed more than fifty natural disasters without any apparent decline, a phenomenon that may be linked to climate change. Climate-related extreme events caused economic losses estimated at €487 billion in the 27 EU Member States between 1980 and 2020. In response to this harsh reality, the course “Disaster Risk Management and EU Law” adopts a human-centred approach to natural hazards, recognising the profoundly personal experiences of individuals. It focuses on the rights of affected persons and acknowledges the dual trauma they endure: the immediate loss of everything built over a lifetime, resulting in both economic and psychological harm, and the enduring struggle for a normal life throughout the recovery process. This human-centred perspective leads to an exploration of multi-layered legal responses to disasters, covering international instruments, the EU legal framework, soft law tools, national and regional legislation (including powers linked to states of emergency), as well as aspects of private law such as tort and contract. The course aims to provide a comprehensive overview of the principles and legal framework governing disasters within the EU, addressing critical areas such as climate change adaptation, crisis management, environmental liability, financial instruments, and human rights – all with a keen awareness of the individuals at the heart of these challenges. Furthermore, the course critically evaluates different strategies for disaster preparedness, prevention, and mitigation, with an emphasis on the human dimension. It examines effective and fair post-event responses, drawing on case studies from European countries and other relevant global jurisdictions. This holistic and human-focused approach ensures that students gain not only comprehensive legal knowledge but also an empathetic and practical perspective for navigating the complex issues of disaster governance in the European context.

Knowledge: The student will acquire a systematic overview of selected areas concerning responses to disaster risks across different aspects of EU law.

Skills: The student will be able to identify the most important legal acts and other sources of national and EU law governing risk management and potential disaster response, including issues of state aid and transfer of liability. They will be able to work with these sources systematically, apply them in solving case studies, and present the outcomes of their analysis.

Responsibility and autonomy: The student will be able to identify and work with the relevant sources of law related to risk management and remedial processes within the EU. They will understand the interplay between regulations, determine the competent public authority in specific proceedings, and propose solutions within the scope of the subject matter.

Class syllabus:

- * The current international legal framework: the UN, its agencies, and the future development of international instruments relating to disaster risk reduction (DRR) policies
- * The EU and its legal framework for Disaster Risk Management (DRM) and Disaster Risk Reduction (DRR): is the EU prepared for further challenges?
- * The rights of individuals before a disaster, after a disaster, and during the recovery process
- * Is there a right to remain in one's homeland? Your home and property in the context of DRR and human rights law
- * Public housing and temporary accommodation in countries affected by natural disasters
- * Energy poverty within the EU: ensuring access to energy for people living in areas exposed to natural hazards
- * Mortgages and continuous obligations in areas affected by natural risks: are EU institutions on the side of the people?
- * Disability and disasters in the EU: an unresolved issue
- * Disadvantaged minorities in the EU: an unresolved issue
- * Entrepreneurs and disasters: a European perspective, state aid
- * EU values tested by disasters: democracy, the rule of law
- * The EU internal market in the aftermath of disasters: extraordinary measures concerning free movement, extraordinary measures in public procurement
- * New technologies and disaster risk management: is the EU at the forefront?

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2025/2026
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Law
Course ID: PraF.KOP-KTPKK-KSEP/ mPRV17-913/25	Course title: Evidence
Educational activities: Type of activities: seminar Number of hours: per week: 3 per level/semester: 39 Form of the course: on-site learning
Number of credits: 5
Recommended semester: 3.
Educational level: II.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: Interim evaluation: 100 %, assessing the quality of the written record of the taking of evidence and the oral taking of evidence, as well as the processing of the evidentiary situation into a well-reasoned decision. In the examination, the student may use all available sources of legal information, in particular uncommented legislation, commentaries, case law, legal literature and legal information systems. Grading scale: A/1 = 91-100%; B/1.5 =81-90%; C/2 = 73-80%; D/2.5 = 66-72%; E: 60-65%, Fx: 0-59%. Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 100/0
Learning outcomes: A) Knowledge: After completing the course, students will have broad knowledge of individual means of evidence and their possible use in criminal proceedings, administrative proceedings, and civil proceedings. Students will have cross-sectional knowledge of individual areas and will be able to define the differences in evidence in individual branches of law. Students will know the theoretical basis of individual means of evidence and will be able to define the results that can be obtained and expected from these means of evidence. B) Skills: Students are able to question and argue the persuasiveness and validity of evidence in individual proceedings. In particular, they are able to propose the use of individual means of evidence in court proceedings, check the legality of this evidence, its relevance to the case, and its connection to other evidence. The student is able to critically evaluate the results of evidence, argue for their correctness or incorrectness, and appropriately use the tools of the relevant procedural rules to achieve the desired results of the proceedings. C) Responsibility and independence: The student is particularly qualified to create a comprehensive procedural strategy for evidence. Students are able to choose the most appropriate means of evidence from a range of options and decide for themselves on their relevance to criminal, administrative, or civil proceedings. Students master the tactics of evidence and the possibilities of intervening in it from the perspective of individual legal professions, as well as how to argue in court proceedings to support their claims.

Teaching that also takes into account the requirements of practical application in the areas of the judiciary, public prosecution, and legal professions, which are supervised by the Ministry of Justice of the Slovak Republic.

Class syllabus:

1. Concept and object of the law of evidence. Basic concepts of the law of evidence, terminological differences from the point of view of several legal disciplines. Comparison of the principles relating to evidence in selected proceedings before public authorities, with an emphasis on the issues of the distribution of the burden of proof and the burden of proof between the procedural subjects and the consequences of their failure to do so.
2. Tactics, ethics, speed and economy of evidence - what evidence to propose and when to propose it; legal and ethical limits to the tactics of evidence; identification of necessary evidence by the public authority and its activities aimed at speed and economy of evidence.
3. Questioning the accused/party/litigant
4. Questioning of witnesses
5. Methods and tactics of conducting the interrogation.
6. Confrontation. Recognition.
7. Professional and expert activity.
8. Documentary and physical evidence
9. Inspection, reconstruction.
10. Documentation of evidence, taking of evidence. Evaluation of the evidence and its projection into the decision. Dealing with the results of the evidence in the reasoning of the decision and dealing with evidence proposed but not taken.
11. Forensic expertise in the field of computer crime
12. Simulation of the taking of evidence I
13. Simulation of Evidence Execution II
14. Simulation of the evaluation of evidence and the formulation of the reasoning of a decision to the extent that it relates to evidence

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Academic year: 2025/2026
University: Comenius University Bratislava
Faculty: Faculty of Law
Course ID: PraF.UEV/mPRV17-1190- L/25	Course title: Introduction to Law&Economics
Educational activities: Type of activities: lecture / seminar Number of hours: per week: 1 / 1 per level/semester: 13 / 13 Form of the course: on-site learning
Number of credits: 3
Recommended semester: 2., 4.
Educational level: II.
Prerequisites:
Course requirements: Students are required to read 1-2 required texts and watch or listen to one of the selected materials for each lecture/seminar. The selected materials are videos, podcasts, articles, or other documents —students will be given a wide range of options from which they can choose according to their own interests. Each week, they will write a short essay, approximately half a page (250 words), in which they will reflect on the required text and selected material, with the aim of applying their knowledge and finding ways to think critically about it. (60%) The exam is written and will test the understanding of the basic concepts and arguments of Law & Economics. It will not focus on memorizing facts and will be based primarily on the required reading material read during the semester. (40%) Students must obtain at least 60% of the points for the essays and at least 60% of the points from the exam. In total, they must have at least 60% of the points from the entire course. Grading scale: A/1 = 91–100%; B/1.5 = 81–90%; C/2 = 73–80%; D/2.5 = 66–72%; E/3 = 60–65%; FX = 0–59% Weighting of continuous/final assessment: 60/40 Scale of assessment (preliminary/final): 40/60 Learning outcomes: a) Knowledge: Has extensive knowledge of what changes in the law lead to improvements, especially in terms of the economic efficiency of the law. Can assess what price a person should pay for unlawful behavior. For example, they can determine the effective length of a sentence in relation to the crime committed and determine the limit above which the punishment no longer brings any benefit, only costs to society. They have knowledge of how to express the price of human life, for example for the purposes of compensation. They can assess which legal regime helps to prevent damage. They can evaluate when it is effective and desirable to breach or comply with a contract. They learn to distinguish basic rationality theory from newer behavioral theories based on incentives and motivations to comply with rules. They are familiar with concepts such as nudges and know how to use them when considering policies and regulations.

b) Skills:

They are familiar with the basic concepts of economic analysis of law. They have a command of the basic economic terminology and methodology necessary for the analysis of law. They are able to propose effective changes to laws. They can distinguish between the different motivations of lawbreakers and set penalties accordingly. They can think about law ex ante, i.e., from the perspective of a legislator.

c) Responsibility and independence:

They can think critically and analytically about law. They can use the skills they have acquired in the legislative process, changes in law, and reforms in public administration. They can apply empirical knowledge of law, policies, and regulations in the private sphere, especially in consulting, using the latest findings in behavioral economics. They can apply the knowledge they have acquired in the judiciary, both in civil and criminal law. They will prepare for their own research in the academic field.
